DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection necessitated by applicant's amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chiba et al (SOLID STATE IONICS 152-153 (2002) 575-582).
4. Regarding claims 1, Chiba et al disclose a material having composition represented by $\text{La}_{1-y}\text{Sr}_y\text{Ni}_{1-x}\text{Fe}_x\text{O}_3$ ($x=0.3-1-0$, $y=0-0.6$; Abstract; Experimental; Results and Discussion), which satisfies the formula cited in the claim. The reference of Chiba is silent about whether this composite oxide has a negative Seebeck coefficient at 100C or higher. However, since the composition of Chiba meets the formula cited in the claim, it is inherent to have the same properties as the claimed oxide, particularly the Seebeck coefficient.
5. Regarding claim 2, Chiba et al disclose a material having composition represented by $\text{La}_{1-y}\text{Sr}_y\text{Ni}_{1-x}\text{Fe}_x\text{O}_3$ ($x=0.3-1-0$, $y=0-0.6$; Abstract; Experimental; Results and Discussion), which satisfies the formula cited in the claim. The reference of Chiba is silent about whether this composite oxide has an electrical resistivity of 10 or less at 100C or higher. However, since the composition of Chiba meets the formula cited in the claim, it is inherent to have the same properties as the claimed oxide, particularly the electrical resistivity.

6. Regarding claims 3 and 4, Chiba does not indicate whether the composition is an n-type thermoelectric material. However, since the composition of Chiba meets the formula cited in the claim, it is fully capable of functioning as an n-type thermoelectric material.

7. Regarding claims 5 and 6, since the component of the cited thermoelectric module is the n-type material comprising the claimed oxide, the composition represented by $\text{La}_{1-y}\text{Sr}_y\text{Ni}_{1-x}\text{Fe}_x\text{O}_3$ ($x=0.3-1-0$, $y=0-0.6$) as disclosed by Chiba meets the formula cited in the claim. Therefore, $\text{La}_{1-y}\text{Sr}_y\text{Ni}_{1-x}\text{Fe}_x\text{O}_3$ ($x=0.3-1-0$, $y=0-0.6$) of Chiba reads on the instant thermoelectric module.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
